Governor Seeks NAACP Records On State Housing

NEW YORK (AP)-Gov. Rockefeller has asked an official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored people to turn over to the State Division of Housing any reports of discrimination in state-aided projects.

A spokesman for the governor in Albany Monday night Rockefeller had recommended that course of action in a letter to Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP

Wilkins had written Rockefeller earlier, claiming that the State Division of Housing was encouraging, rather than discouraging, racial discrimination in public housing projects.

Wilkins wrote that "the Division of Housing has failed to impress the state's policy of non-discrimination upon all municipalities engaged in planning or operating state-aided, low-rent housing pro-

He added that "this laxity has encouraged localities to ignore or circumvent the state's policies of non-discrimination.

James W. Gaynor, head of the division, said that he had not heard from Wilkins.

Last week, James H. Lockhart president of the NAACP's Troy chapter, said his organization suspected there was a conspiracy "to create and maintain a Negro ghetto" in that city. Lockhart said the NAACP planned further investigation of the Troy situation. Rockefeller is now on a vacation in Venezuela.

Upstate Man Is Seized by Police On Check Charge

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) -It was a hectic day in the life of William Nottingham-and in the life of the Schenectady police

It went like this, police said: Nottingham, 33, who operated a photographic studio here, slipped out of town last July 13 shortly before police charged him with passing bad checks.

He left behind his pregnant wife, Gloria. When she entered St. Clare's Hospital to have the baby, police figured Nottingham might show up. They placed a stake-out around the building.

He showed up Monday and was rrested. But he pleaded with the etectives to allow him to see his vife and the new baby. The detective's accompanied him to her econd-floor room and he promptleaped out the window, taking screen with him. Well, the distressed detectives and the rest of the force spent 12 hours searching and they found him early today in a closet at the nome of a friend in suburban Rotterdam. His wife, who had een discharged from the hospial, was in another part of the house. Nottingham gave no re-

Always there must be conversation. It is a way to pass the time. It saves eyesight because when one talks, he need not read. Why worry about knowledge-it is possible to read book reviews. Then one can talk for hours about the book. So along comes a slob who asks:

"Did you read it?"
That spoils everything. Of course, nobody read the book yet, They're all waiting for a paper-back to show up. Besides, even if you have the paperback, it is not necessary to read the stuff. The Haydn, as far as style, seemed too intense, too dramatic. I felt that the first violinist, while correct in trying to keep the work alive, overplayed, "dug in" too much and as a result some of the more rhythmic passages were not clear. The Shostakovitch, on the other hand, was a delight. It seemed so open, so free in comparison to the Haydn. It was very romantic, even sensuous in parts, reminding one of the Villa Lobas works for strings. > "Man, this is great," said Vincent Fratantonio after hearing that his children could go home. Mrs. Fratantonio was convicted last Dec. 6 of mistreating her daughters, Bernadette, 4, and Venita, 6, by feeding them drugs that kept them in prolonged comas. The case of the "Sleeping Beauties" mystified medical men for several months, and the case was widely publicized.

Mrs. Fratantonio was fined $500 and sentenced to one year in jail, but she is free on bond pending appeal of her conviction. She was not in court today.

Judge Albert A. Woldman did not give Mrs. Fratantonio and husband custody of the children. He left legal custody with the Catholic Charities Bureau, which had kept the children at Parma-

MODENA - Local members of the Plattekill Grange attended a meeting on Saturday evening at the Grange Hall, when the observance of National Farm Safety Week, was the theme of the evening program.

Topics and demonstrations on farm and home safety, rural traffic and farm machinery, were conducted by a committee comprised of Albert Molson Burton Ward and Nathaniel Dawes, of Modena, Thomas Christopher, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Decker and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Collard.

A benefit ball game is scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 6, at Gardiner, unless otherwise announced. Leslie Decker was injured recently in a baseball game, and is hospitalized.

The Wallkill Old Timers, from Modena and Gardiner, will play, including Art Taylor, Twig Terwilliger, Ira DeVoe, Paul Gaffney, Andy Harcher, Bucky Freer, Mugs Marcinkowski, Ad and Jim Crowell, Tink Daley, George, Charles and Harry Mullen, Ray Haas, Lefty Williams, George Mulle, Stan Krum, and Mal

The roster of the Modena and Gardiner Old Timers include Tom Upright, Pete Moran, Jack Bonagura, Ed Hess, Corny Taylor, George Majestic, Russell Coy, Les Wager Jr., Lee Bar-clay, Dick Clinton, Roy Hansen, Bill Goehren, Greg Decker, Don and Martin Decker, John Gray Bob Harcher.

Anyone else in the Modena-Gardiner area, wishing to play, may contact Russell Coy in Modena, or Lee Barclay in Gardiner.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Lolita Harris Scott, 50, who died Saturday July 22, at her home in New Windsor, after a long illness. Wife of Randolph Scott, she was born in Savilton, a daughter of Mrs. Carrie Hedges Harris and the late William Harris. Besides her husband and mother she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Joyce Blass and Mrs. Wilma Pettine, also four grandchildren. Lobster Pancakes Are Maine Delight

CREAMY lobster sauce gives a bracing taste to buttermilk pancakes in this Maine recommendation for fine eating.

GAYNOR MADDOX Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

At Severance Lodge on Lake Kezar in Maine, we relished (several times) buttermilk pancakes smothered in Maine lobster sauce. The lake was crystal clear and calm, and far off rose the Longfellow Mountains. Blue Maine skies and bracing Maine weather completed this well-fed experience.

Buttermilk Griddle Cakes (Yield: 12 to 15 pancakes, depending on size) egg, well beaten cup commercial buttermilk ½ cup sweet milk

1 tablespoon melted butter 2 cups flour ½ teaspoon salt teaspoon soda

2 tablespoons cornmeal Combine first 4 ingredients, mixing well. Sift remaining ingredients together and add to first mixture. Fry on greased griddle, over moderate heat, Rev. George F. Note: Packaged pancake mix may be substituted if desired. Maine Lobster Sauce

(Yield: 3 to 4 servings) 1 2-pound lobster, boiled cup butter, melted 1 tablespoon cooking sherry

(optional) tablespoon flour cup cream 2 egg yolks, well beaten

4 teaspoon salt teaspoon cayenne pepper 1/8 teaspoon grated nutmeg

Slice lobster into thin slices, keeping claws whole as garnish if desired, Saute in butter 3 or minutes over low heat. Sprinkle with flower. Add sherry (optional) and cream. Add egg yolks and seasoning; stir until thick-

The official program for the 4th annual Wiltwyck Invitational golf tournament was dedicated to John Provenzano and it couldn't have happened to a nicer guy.

As the program states, J. P. has been, in effect, "Mr. Invitational" since the orgin of this tournament. Provenzane started the Invitational against the advice of the doubting Thomases and

A Pitching Nugget:

Mike Spada's brilliant pitching for the Kingston Braves since his release by Auburn of the New York-Penn League indicates the sturdy right hander will be back in a minor league training camp next spring. The New York Mets are close by and Mike should have no trouble getting a looksee from the New National League entry. The son of sturdy parents, Spada is a big, rawboned youngster who can fire a crackling fast ball. He was wild against Poughkeepsie, but a fluke bounder and a double play that miss fired put him in jams that led to unearned runs. Against Spring Valley, a tough club on its home grounds. Spada pitched almost flawless relief after a shaky start. Spada's showing forces an inevitable question: Why should Fred Davi have to bother with high-priced Al Corwin when he has a solid staff in southpaw Frank Horan and Spada and John Risley. With all due respect to Corwin's major league background, he was rather useless against the tougher clubs in the NY-NJ League, Despite their 11-5 record, the Braves are only a game ahead of West Haverstraw and Newburgh in the loss column. But in Spada, Risley and Horan, the locals have the pitchers to win the west-
